BONFIRE

Those fellows who did not have the pleasure of going to the ONE game last Saturday, had quite a big time in Auburn themselves. In all there were only about seventy-five men here, but that handful pulled together, and the result was, a display of more college spirit than has been seen in Auburn for years. We were disappointed in that we did not see the game, but are glad that we were able to so thoroughly enjoy it's result, by so enthusiastically celebrating it.

A bonfire. That one letter "A" tells you all you need to know. Without a doubt, Auburn had never before seen it's equal. Boxes, barrels, crates and old fences, topped by a big wooden V to which hung a uniform, made a pile nearly twenty-five feet high, and twenty-five feet at the base. All this was thoroughly soaked with thirty-six gallons of oil. The whole was lighted at the usual time, and the heat was so great, that the snake dance was a failure. You fellows who were not here, can never realize what a real bonfire is, until you see such a one as we made. It was a peach, even if we do say so.

From a tree we stretched a banner, giving the score, and naming the hero as well as his achievement. We hope the team saw it. You will find the score on the tank also, but do not ask us who did it, for we do not know(?) We put that score everywhere, and one of Prof. Crenshaw's "sharks" found the equation of the line joining the points P1 (A.7) and P2 (V.7), which result, was also posted.

Dr. Thach gave us a mighty good speech, as did also Prof. Fullan, Mrs. Hinds, and Miss McPherson, which we enjoyed as well as appreciated. Just here, we wish to thank Miss Rutland, Miss Stelle, and Miss Terrell for their assistance and kindness. To anyone who THINKS he knows three more LOYAL "Co-Eds.", we wish to say that we are from Missouri, and must needs be shown. Also, we wish to thank the ladies and merchants, who gave us the wood and oil. Everyone of our friends responded nobly, and we appreciate it. At 11:30 P. M. we turned in a hoarse, tired but as happy a bunch as ever listened to "Tommy's" and "Bennie's" football celebration jokes.

AUBURN'S SNAKE DANCE.

Between the halves of the Vandy-Auburn game in Birmingham Saturday, the Auburn student body gave the people of that city a treat that will never be equalled. As the whistle blew closing the second period the entire body formed and marched in lock step all around the field and then formed a gigantic "A" in front of the grand stand. Auburn yells were then given, and the exhibition was closed with a great snake dance over the entire field. The students were given rousing cheers from the Vanderbilt supporters and wearers of the Orange and Blue.

As the game closed the entire student body swept upon the field, and placing every member of the foot-ball team on their shoulders began a triumphant march, passed the sponsors box and on to the cars.

ORANGE AND BLUE TIGERS

NEWELL AGAIN STARS WITH BRILLIANT RUN TO TOUCHDOWN

HUMBLE VANDY COMMODORES

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 23.—Today at Rickwood Field, when the Commodores of Vanderbilt locked horns with the Plains Tigers of Auburn for the Southern Championship, the people of Birmingham were given the opportunity of seeing the greatest, hardest and cleanest battle ever fought in the history of the Southern gridiron. Never again will there be such an exhibition of true fight and grim determination as that displayed by the Auburn Tigers in last Saturday's battle. Auburn was at a great disadvantage—they were outweighed five pounds per player—they were against a team that held "Johnnie" Harvard's aggregation to a 9-6 score,—against a team that had not been scored on by a Southern rival in three years or defeated in nine years. But, they caused the greatest upset, ever known, in the "dope," by outfighting, outkicking, and holding Dan McGugin's machine to a 7 to 7 score, and thereby quelling Vandy's hopes for the championship honors, which she has held for the past three years.

Long before two o'clock Rickwood Field presented a gala appearance with its gaily bedecked supporters of the Orange and Blue, and Gold and Black teams. The student body from Auburn occupied one entire bleacher and section of the grandstand, while the Vanderbilt supporters were seated in the other. Promptly at 2:15 o'clock, amid the most rousing cheers, the two teams assumed their positions on the field, and, with a signal from Captains Major and Hardage. Referee Walker sounded the whistle that started the greatest battle, perhaps, that shall ever be played on a gridiron of the Sunny South.

Vanderbilt Scores.

In the early part of the first quarter the ball was in the center of the field. But near the close of the period, Vandy, after holding Auburn for downs, received the ball, and after a number of beautiful end runs by Collins and Robbins, and wonderful line plunging by Sykes, the latter carried the ball across the Auburn goal line for Vanderbilt's only touchdown of the game. After a punt out, T. Brown kicked an easy goal.

Newell Runs to Touchdown.

In the third quarter Sykes in attempting a line play fumbled, the ball rolling toward Vandy's goal. With three Commodores in the act of receiving the ball, "Runt" Newell came from his position at defensive quarter, shot in between the Vandy backfield, recovered the ball and, with three of McGugin's fleet-footed warriors in hot pursuit, ran 50 yards to a touchdown. Captain Major kicked an easy goal, and the Auburn rooters went wild.

Auburn's Brick-wall.

In the fourth quarter Auburn's wonderful line defense withstood the terrible heavy plunging of the Vandy backs—and three times Old Auburn held the Commodores for downs, under the very shadows of her, Auburn's own goal posts. Vanderbilt was desperate, and after three unsuccessful attempts at drop kicks, she sent her charging backs, time and time again, at the Orange and Blue line, but they found that line impregnable.

Stars of the Game.

Though there were a number of men, of both teams, who deserve the highest praise in the world for their excellent work, Captain Major of Auburn, was the most conspicuous hero of the battle. He was a magnificent ground gainer, a good general, a splendid fighter, and his punting was without without an equal in the South. Not only were his punts wonderful on account of height and distance, but his ability to get them off on every occasion, sometimes under threatening circumstances, should also be especially mentioned. Newell ran him a close race, with second honors. Newell starred in his beautiful run to a touchdown, his great ability to handle punts, and his beautiful broken field runs. In such a wonderful game it is hard to single out any particular man as a star, but some men on account of their position have a better opportunity of starring than others. But—"Here's to Coach Donahue, Captain Major, and to every man who wore a cleated shoe to Rickwood Field." Fellows we are proud of you all; and we take off our hats to that squad of heroes who fought as no other team has fought, in the defense of the Orange and Blue.

For Vanderbilt the offensive work of Collins, Sykes and Robbins was wonderful, while Morgan, "Nuck" Brown and Shipp were towers of strength in the line.

FIRST QUARTER—Vanderbilt won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. Major kicked to Vandy. T. Brown received the ball, returned 15 yds. Robbins unable to gain around ends. Collins goes 12 yds. but Vandy is penalized 15 yds. for holding. Vandy after several attempts at the line was unable to gain, and compelled to kick. Ball crossed Auburn's goal line. Touchback. AUBURN STUDENTS IN BIRMINGHAM.

At 11:30 o'clock the special via Montgomery bearing the entire student body of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, accompanied by the cadet band pulled in to the Louisville and Nashville station.

They formed their line of march in front of the station and headed by the "Auburn Ball" pushed by students, they made their way down twentieth street. Just behind the great ball and borne ten feet above the ground there appeared a huge banner with the inscription "We've Got Vandy's Goat," emblazoned in large black letters. Next followed the band playing "We'll Roll The Old Foot-ball Along." Finally came the student body. Every face was happy and confident and every throat pealed forth the paean prophecy of Auburn's expected victory. From the sides of the line there came cheers from local Auburn supporters, and here and there wearers of the gold and black looked on with smiles and gave cheers of approbation. All traffic in the city was suspended for the time being, and the Orange and Blue supporters controlled the city's thoroughfares.

The first halt was made at the Hillman Hotel, Vanderbilt's headquarters, where after announcing their arrival with an Auburn yell, a rousing cheer was given for Captain Hardage and his Commodore Squad. The parade then proceeded to Auburn's headquarters at the Morris Hotel. Here after giving quite a number of yells the crowd dispersed to be reassembled at Rickwood Field for the great battle.

Sing a Song of Sweethearts.

Sing a song of sweethearts
Coming through the rye,
Have to love them, even
If you never try!

Physicists conjecture
What the world would do
If the force of gravity
Did not keep it true.

Or if the sun in heaven
That gives us heat and light
Were suddenly extinguished,
The world in darkest night.

But I say, what were life worth
With gravity and sun,
If there were no sweethearts
When the day is done?
Then, sing a song of sweethearts,

They make life worth the living
On this world of ours.

AUBURN, ALA, NOVEMBER 30, 1912

We want to congratulate the students on their conduct while in Birmingham. To the best of our knowledge and belief, every Auburn man conducted himself as a gentleman while in the Magic City. Yet there was plenty of college spirit shown and of the right sort too. The people of Birmingham were thoroughly impressed with the fact that Auburn was in town and we believe that the impression was favorable to us. Now they know that Auburn is on the map with a big A. We also hope that they feel that Auburn is the best place in the world for their boys.

The spirit of good sportsmanship was everywhere evident at Rickwood Park. It wasn't a game of personal grudges at all. Both teams were there to win, but they were there to win by clean football. From the first kickoff it was a battle of giants who fought as though their life depended on winning, but it was clean sport, no dirty playing on either side.

And after the game, although the ball was in Vanderbilt's possession, Captain Hardage presented it to Captain Major as an evidence of Vandy's friendly feeling towards our team and College. The same spirit of friendliness on the part of Auburn for Vanderbilt was evidenced by the whole student body when they cheered Louie Hardage, an old Auburn man, but Vandy's Captain this year. It is our sincere hope that this spirit of friendly rivalry between Auburn and Vanderbilt will be permanent and that the championship of the South will always rest on the result of the annual game to be played in future years between Auburn and Vanderbilt at Birmingham.

In regard to the much talked of post season game we think that we are safe in stating that there is no foundation to the report, circulated by southern newspapers. While it would be an infinite satisfaction to the students of both institutions to play off the tie, and while each team is equally confident that it can beat the other if given another chance, still it is not the policy of either Auburn or of Vanderbilt to play post season games. So we shall have to wait until next year when we hope to be the undisputed champions of the South.

AUBURN MEN MAKE GOOD IN BIRMINGHAM.

Perhaps one of the most notable incidents of the high grade quality of the technical training given by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute is demonstrated by the make-up of the staff of experts employed by the Woodward Iron Company, Birmingham District. This is one of the wealthiest corporations in the iron trade in the United States that has not been merged with the United States Steel Company. Out of thirty-three college men employed by the Company twenty-four of them are Auburn men. The following is a list:

W. C. Martin, '00, Chief Engineer.
H. J. Weiss, '09, Chief Chemist.
O. Lay, Special Chemist.
E. T. Wilson, '92, Chief Auditor.
E. H. Cabaniss, '05, Engineer Ore Mines.
R. T. Bagby, '04, Constructing Engineer.
W. M. Lacey, '07, Asst. Supt. Coal Mines.
G. G. Hughes, '07, Asst. Supt. Ore Mines.
O. B. Cooper, '05, Asst. Supt. Blast Furnace.
E. Moore, Resident Engineer, Coal Mines.
W. W. Caldwell, '09, Field Engineer.
S. E. Fort, '06, Secty. Chief Engineer.
H. P. Hodges, '07, Draftsman.
E. W. Lind, '09, Draftsman.
F. L. McRee, Draftsman.
J. R. McCaghren, '10, Draftsman.
J. W. Motley, '09, Draftsman.
M. M. Argo, Asst. Chief Electrician.
D. S. Boyd, Draftsman.
J. J. Beaver, Engineering Department.
W. C. Slaughter, Machinist.
E. P. Winters, Repair Electrician.
D. C. Wood, Foundryman.
This is a notable record and one of which the Institution should be proud.

AUBURN, ALA., NOVEMBER 30, 1912

We want to congratulate the students on their conduct while in Birmingham. To the best of our knowledge and belief, every Auburn man conducted himself as a gentleman while in the Magic City. Yet there was plenty of college spirit shown and of the right sort too. The people of Birmingham were thoroughly impressed with the fact that Auburn was in town and we believe that the impression was favorable to us. Now they know that Auburn is on the map with a big A. We also hope that they feel that Auburn is the best place in the world for their boys.

The spirit of good sportsmanship was everywhere evident at Rickwood Park. It wasn't a game of personal grudges at all. Both teams were there to win, but they were there to win by clean football. From the first kickoff it was a battle of giants who fought as though their life depended on winning, but it was clean sport, no dirty playing on either side.

And after the game, although the ball was in Vanderbilt's possession, Captain Hardage presented it to Captain Major as an evidence of Vandy's friendly feeling towards our team and College. The same spirit of friendliness on the part of Auburn for Vanderbilt was evidenced by the whole student body when they cheered Louie Hardage, an old Auburn man, but Vandy's Captain this year. It is our sincere hope that this spirit of friendly rivalry between Auburn and Vanderbilt will be permanent and that the championship of the South will always rest on the result of the annual game to be played in future years between Auburn and Vanderbilt at Birmingham.

In regard to the much talked of post season game we think that we are safe in stating that there is no foundation to the report, circulated by southern newspapers. While it would be an infinite satisfaction to the students of both institutions to play off the tie, and while each team is equally confident that it can beat the other if given another chance, still it is not the policy of either Auburn or of Vanderbilt to play post season games. LIBRARY LIST, No. 2.

The list of books given this week is made by Dr. Frank Crane, a popular magazine writer. It is a good long list and many of us would not agree with the Doctor in every item, but it is suggestive. Most of the books every boy should try. Probably an amateur in the art of reading had better start at the bottom of the "Indispensable Books" or with the novels.

Books No Boy Should Leave Unread—By Dr. Frank Crane: Indispensable Books—

Homer's "Iliad" and "Odyssey."

Virgil's "Aeneid."

Dante's "Divine Comedy."

Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister."

Moliere's Plays.

Hugo's "Les Miserables."

Shakespeare's Plays.

Tennyson's Poems.

Wordsworth's Poems.

Longfellow's Poems.

Dickens' Novels.

Scott's Novels.

Emerson's Essays.

Bacon's Essays.

Gibbon's Rome.

The Bible.

"Pilgrim's Progress."

"The Arabian Nights."

Novels to be read—

Stevenson's "Treasure Island."

"Vathek," by William Rockford.

"John Halifax, Gentleman."

Hawthorne's "Marble Faun."

"Rasselas," by Samuel Johnson.

Brook's "Fool of Quality."

Dumas' "Count of Monte

Cristo."

Reade's "Cloister and the Hearth."

Wilkie Collins' "Moonstone."

Conan Doyle's "White Company."

"A Bow of Orange Ribbon."

George MacDonald's Novels.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin."

"The Fair God."

Poe's Tales "Hypatia."

"Quo Vadis."

George Ebers' Novels.

"Ben Hur."

Mark Twain's Books.

To be ignorant of the writings of the "latest author" is no disgrace. Many cultured people probably never heard of him. But not to have some acquaintance with any one of the books on this list is a disgrace.

Now, most of them will be found hard books to read. It will be a great deal easier to pick up a cheap novel that is flashily written and full of adventure.

Therefore a boy should make up his mind first of all that he will read them. He should call up all his pluck and perseverance and stick to them.

Cotton, to Col. Patrick—Sir, I understand that I have been appointed as a Lieutenant and wish to tender my resignation.

Col. Patrick—There certainly must be some mistake about this,

Mr. Cotton, as I don't remember that your name was on the list of appointments.

TO MOTHER.

I am young and stout and strong,

Mother's led me all along

With her arm that once was strong, tho now more weak;

And tho she is far away

She is with me every day;

In my dreams I feel her kiss upon my cheek.

O, my little mother, dear!

I will keep you ever near,

And I know that you will keep me pure and true.

Still I see your tear-dimmed eye

As you sweetly said "Good-bye!"

Ah! I know that God was looking then at you.
